Pre-Show Nerves : (Length: 05:48)

Records Played:

Jolity Farm (written by Lesley Sarony, covered by The Bonzo Dog Doo-Dah Band)

General:

After a reet scolding from Facebook police for crimes concerning the playing of a Bruce Springsteen record during last week's pre-show, our tank-topped perp has 1920s classic Jolity Farm ont turntable toneet, performed by The Bonzo Dog Doo-Dah Band. He's hoping the music will be classed as old enough so as not to incur further copyright wrath.

Scott shows viewers the beautifully artworked bright orange album cover featuring crazy cartoon characters emanating in splash bubbles from the mouth of a gramophone, while a slick-haired gentleman carrying a pipe-smoking fish under his arm looks on. "I kinda figured it was a nice jolly way to start the night."

A birthday shout out to "Big Bonzos fan" Andrew Cutts follows.

Another fan comments: "There's some odd chap that looks rather like Bjorn doing chicken noises over on the Muddy Summers live show." Scott chuckles, says he knows that Bjorn's 'step-brother' Dan has done some "great banjo work on the new Muddy Summers album". Scott sings their praises, amazed at how they've managed to produce this while all being apart during lockdown.

More fan chit chat.

Ends: "Have fun. Stay safe. See yer in a bit. Byyeee!"
